RE: Temporary Release/Furlough, Federal Funding, and Technical Assistance for Jails.

Dear Mr. Ranatza:

During this very challenging time, thank you for the steps you and your members have already taken to slow the spread of COVID-19 throughout Louisiana. We write today to request your assistance and collaboration in further reducing the spread and protecting the health and safety of officers, staff, and individuals in your custody. We write not to accuse or berate, but to offer real solutions and partner with you to save as many Louisiana lives as we can - together. As noted by several corrections officials in a recent webinar, there is no public safety without public health.¹

As you are probably aware, the CDC guidance² on the management of COVID-19 in correctional and detention facilities includes: implementing intensified cleaning and disinfecting procedures; increasing the number of staff and/or incarcerated/detained persons trained and responsible for cleaning common areas; providing alcohol-based hand sanitizer with at least 60% alcohol where permissible based on security restrictions; and implementing social distancing strategies to increase the physical space between incarcerated/detained persons (ideally 6 feet between all individuals, regardless of the presence of symptoms). We understand that these objectives are difficult to achieve in Louisiana jails, particularly social distancing. We request that you refrain from the use of lockdown or solitary confinement as methods to achieve medical isolation because, as noted by doctors and health officials, these methods may exacerbate the spread.³ Detainees may be dissuaded from reporting symptoms of the virus if they believe the response will be punitive; this may also be the case when they know they could potentially be sent to Camp J at Angola if they admit they are feeling ill.⁴

We also ask that you do not transfer any detainees to Angola, which admittedly does not have any ventilators and will ultimately result in the worst cases being sent to the hospital, the closest of which is 60 miles away.⁵ In particular, we request that no juvenile under the age of 18 be moved to Angola or any adult prison during this crisis,⁶ and that no immigrant detainees be transferred across facilities in collaboration with ICE. Any transfer of individuals by your staff from between correctional facilities will, in most cases, require significant time, expense, and a violation of social distancing requirements to restrain and transport ill individuals, putting both your officers and their families at increased risk of contracting the virus. As the frontline law enforcement responders in your communities, you are in the best position to save lives early in the criminal justice system process. Sending your community members to a state facility, where they will be housed in a location (Camp J) where conditions are questionable at best, increases their risk not only of contracting the disease, but their risk of death.

In Louisiana, Doctors and Professors from Tulane and Louisiana State University,⁷ clinicians and medical students,⁸ and public health experts⁹ have reiterated the national guidance. They advise that a drastic reduction of jail populations is required to achieve the CDC's recommendations. The Louisiana Supreme Court referred to the potential outbreak of COVID-19 in correctional facilities as “catastrophic” and recommended an immediate comprehensive, risk-based assessment of anyone currently detained to quickly and efficiently process eligible individuals for immediate release.¹⁰ Americans for Prosperity has also called for strategic reductions in jail populations and release wherever possible with or without conditions as an imperative step in the criminal justice system's response to this pandemic.¹¹ Even the public understands the breadth of this crisis, with recent polls demonstrating bipartisan support with 63% of voters supporting the release of people from jails and prisons to stop the spread of COVID-19, and 72% supporting clemency for elderly, incarcerated people.¹² With social distancing nearly impossible in many jail facilities, releasing inmates is a healthier and safer alternative to unsuccessful attempts to enact medical isolation.

In the absence of the ability to implement the guidance outlined by public health officials, we believe that Louisiana's prisons and jails will face extremely dire consequences in the coming days or weeks. The spread of COVID-19 within a correctional facility as a clear and present danger is playing out at Rikers Island Penitentiary Complex in New York. In three weeks, over 700 people have tested positive including over 440 staff at the facility with at least 6 officer deaths.¹³ The infection rate is 6.6% which is 7 times higher than the New York City infection rate, and 9 times higher than the state of New York as a whole. Louisiana - with the highest incarceration rate in the world and the second largest population of immigrant detainees in the country¹⁴ - may be on this same path to rapid, ongoing community spread if local leaders do not engage in immediate action to protect their parishes and cities by reducing the cycling of the virus in and out of correctional facilities.

There is still an opportunity to slow the spread of the virus, "flatten the curve," and prevent unnecessary deaths. The quickest and least expensive way our state can avoid a catastrophe is for each parish jail to access immediately available federal funding to facilitate the individual assessment, release, supervision, electronic monitoring, and/or home confinement options for detainees in your care. Last week, the Bureau of Justice Assistance announced formula grants¹⁵ that can be drawn down during this emergency to support a broad array of justice system responses to COVID-19. While the State is allocated \$9.7 million for this purpose, cities, townships, and parishes can apply for an additional \$5 million in funding (allocations ranging in size from $33,000 to $1 million depending on population). Applications are due by May 29th. Due to Louisiana's partnership with The Pew Charitable Trusts on justice reinvestment, staff from that organization are available to assist local law enforcement in applying for the funds.¹⁶

Another option for local sheriffs concerned about community spread of COVID-19 is a temporary release or furlough under La. R.S. 15:811; the temporary release for any eligible individual serving under a court judgment who is seriously ill or has a seriously ill family member or the furlough of any inmate who could be rehabilitated through maintaining family relationships.¹⁷ This furloughed time is considered part of the sentence and does not extend the period of incarceration. A sheriff's broad furlough authority can be utilized to immediately and temporarily reduce jail populations and thus the spread of the virus. We recommend temporary release or furlough for as many individuals as possible for the duration of the stay at home order plus an additional 14 days to prevent any individuals from introducing or reintroducing Coronavirus into a correctional facility. Additionally, the ongoing civil detention of immigrant detainees is discretionary and not mandated by law, and should result in their immediate release.

In the event that a given jail cannot meet CDC guidelines without the use of solitary or lockdown, is unable to supervise detainees at home through local federal funding opportunities, and cannot utilize temporary release or furlough, we ask that you relocate detainees to a building where social distancing and compliance with public health guidelines is possible. Under a state of emergency, the Governor can transition the management of local state-owned facilities to the temporary authority of the state, engage the Louisiana National Guard to maintain site control and provide medical services, and utilize the state-based federal funding to employ medical professionals to care for individuals with COVID.¹⁸ These actions are not unprecedented.¹⁹ Not too long ago, FEMA used the publicly-financed Zephyr Stadium as a rescue location for Hurricane Katrina survivors.²⁰ A review of the 5 parishes identified as “Tier I” by justice reinvestment reveals available locations with sufficient amenities to ensure hygienic and safe living conditions for individuals needing treatment or quarantine.²¹ The majority of

The Governor’s authority to call forth the National Guard is found under La. R.S. 29:7(A)(1)(a), (e) which allows him, with or without a state of emergency, to request National Guard assistance to provide for emergency preparedness or assist civil authorities and to specifically assist civil authorities in guarding prisoners.

Another vision of how Louisiana weathers this crisis is possible. We are not permanently on the path of New York or Chicago.²³ We have time to change course, but it is very little time. The undersigned organizations are committed to navigating this crisis with you and providing you with technical assistance to reduce jail populations. We can work with you to identify the barriers to release in a given parish jail, whether it be municipal detainees, out-of-parish warrants, probation/parole holds and technical violations, bail reductions, or drafting applications for the aforementioned temporary release or furlough. Whether it be through direct representation of individuals, data analysis of your detainees, policy advocacy with other criminal legal system actors in your community or at the state level, researching additional publicly financed projects and state-owned properties in your parish, or applying for federal funding, we stand ready to assist you and ensure that every parish in Louisiana navigates the spread of this virus with minimal community impact.
